Title I, Part A Program
Extra Academic Support for Your Child

Title I, Part A is a federal program that provides additional academic assistance to students needing the academic support in math, reading, and English language arts to reach proficiency – to pass state tests.

Parents, Your Involvement Influences Student Academic Success
Students with involved parents are more likely to get good grades, take more challenging classes, have better attendance, graduate and go to community and technical college or university.

Types of Academic Support
Schools provide eligible students additional academic help. Here are 4 examples.

- One-on-One Instruction
- Small Group Instruction
- Additional Help from School Staff
- Extra Learning Materials

School Role

Identifies each student’s academic need
Schools determine student academic need through state and local assessments.

Sets individualized academic goals
School staff evaluates student academic needs to personalize academic goals.

Provides academic support
Schools help each struggling student differently. Services depend on student needs.

Helps student reach academic goal
School staff monitors the academic progress of the student to make sure the student reaches his/her academic goal.

If needed, continues academic support
If student needs further academic support, the school staff will identify the academic need once again.

Engages families
Schools communicate important information and involve parents in program planning and evaluation.

Parent Role

Become familiar with the programs
Learn about program services and activities.

Get involved
Attend and participate in district/school meetings.

Stay connected
Keep on-going communication with program staff about your student’s academic progress.

Communicate academic goals
Monitor your student’s progress reports and contact your school about any academic concerns or goals.

Give feedback
Share your ideas or recommendations to improve services for your student, family and the greater community.

To learn more about services in your school contact:

April 2015